There are a number of things on the menu at the Story Larder.

FOODIE FLIP BOOK

1

Christine Joy Barzarga has made an animation using drawings. Each drawing is slightly different to the last so that when the pages are flipped the drawing comes to life. You can see her drawings hanging on the wall and the animation on the e-tablet.

Try making your own flipbook

Choose 5 or 6 pieces of card

Draw a foodie picture at the bottom of each card

Join the cards at the top edge using a bulldog clip

Flip to see food in action

Some Foodie Flip book ideas

- An apple or a sandwich with a bite getting larger
- A bowl filling up with fruit
- A plate with a disappearing meal - yum

TASTY MORSEL

Christine has learnt to cook from her mum, Norma, and her grandma. She loves food and cooking with her family and wants to share her family recipe with you. Take Norma's recipe card home with you and try cooking like a Filipino.

Choose a blank recipe card

Write or draw a food story on the back

Leave behind for others to enjoy

Some food story ideas

- A favourite recipe and how you learned it

- Growing, buying or looking for food
- Your favourite food and why you like it

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

3

Emma Lupin highlights all the different ways food is produced - everything from a raw vegetable plucked straight from the earth to a processed vitamin pill made in a factory. She wants to draw our attention to the complexity of the food chain and our impact on the future of food production and consumption.

Mulkun Wirrpanda documents all the bush foods and bush medicines that have kept people healthy and strong. She wants to remind people to respect the environment and the plants that sustain us.

Add a drawing or a message to the chalkboard about the significance of food and its importance to people and the planet.

OUT OF THE BAG

4

When you collect food whether in the bush, from your garden or at a shop you need a bag to carry it in. Look at the bags on display in the exhibition and hanging in the Story Larder.

Choose a bag you like and make a drawing of all the different produce you imagine could be carried inside. Where did this produce come from? What will it be used for?
